A Representative Body

From Alexandria Gazette

E. G. Dodson, clerk of the House at the Virginia capital, has prepared an interesting statement which affords an excellent cross section view of the members who compose the General Assembly.

Ninety-one of its one hundred members are Democrats—how did the other nine manage to get elected? Their ages average between 48 and 49 years, the oldest being seventy-three and the youngest twenty-nine. Twenty of them are bachelors—a good chance for Virginia girls; ninety-three are natives of the State. There are among them forty lawyers, twenty-six farmers, twenty-three merchants, five brokers, four physicians, three newspaper editors, two manufacturers, one engineer, one maritime pilot, one conductor, one trial judge clerk and one preacher.

The church denominations are represented and seventy-four legislators have attended college or a university. One of them has had only eight birthday anniversaries. He is delegate F. B. Moses who was born on February 29, 1908, a leap year, and will celebrate his ninth birthday next month.

Here is good material for a truly representative body of legislators.

KEEP CHILDREN SAFE

Supt. Burke has acted wisely in closing Appomattox county schools until Monday. There was no option yesterday, for not even town children could leave their homes, so deep was the snow. There is much sickness in the county, and are on the verge of another flu epidemic. If the situation does not improve by Monday, it might be advisable for schools to close for an additional few days. We urge that every precaution be taken to prevent flu and pneumonia. Health must not be risked. If you child has a bad cold, better keep the child home.

SENATOR BORAH

During the past few days the writer has read countless articles on the passing of Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho. Lavish plaudits upon his great career have been uttered and the loss his death brings to the nation clearly established.

However, for our own appraisal of the brilliant Senator Borah, we [illegible] back to the occasion, when Senator Borah came to Richmond, [illegible] addressed an audience, just a few weeks after the death of Woodrow Wilson. The large audience was [illegible] for Senator Borah had been [illegible] in the anti-League of Nations fight. As a young college student the writer listened on that occasion one greatest feat of public speaking he never expects to witness. By those brilliance of logic and the perfection of forensic ability, Senator Borah captured this audience, and received a tremendous ovation at the conclusion of his address. It was the greatest speech the writer ever heard, and he has heard William Jennings Bryan, Lord Robert Cecil, David Lloyd George, Carter Glass, Tom Heflin, and many other masters of the spoken word.

However, Senator Borah was far more than a great orator. He rose above political lines. He was a great American, who would have been President had he hailed from a more populous state.

Headachy, Breath Bad? Make This Check-Up

The Police Siren means "Look-out!" And so do Nature's signals—headaches, biliousness, bad breath, which are often symptoms of constipation. Don't neglect your sluggish bowels, for a host of constipation's other discomforts may result: such as, sour stomach, loss of appetite or energy, mental dullness.

Help your lazy bowels with spicy, all vegetable BLACK-DRAUGHT. Acts gently, promptly, thoroughly, by simple directions.

BLACK-DRAUGHT'S principal ingredient is an "intestinal tonic-laxative." It helps impart tone to lazy bowel muscles. Next time, try this time-tested product!

JESUS DRAMATICALLY PROCLAIMS HIS MESSIANSHIP

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 21:1-16.
GOLDEN TEXT—Behold, thy King cometh unto thee.—Matthew 21:5.

The official presentation of Himself to the Jewish people as their King, their rejection of Him, and what was even more solemnly meaningful, His rejection of the Hebrew nation because of unbelief—such are the stirring events which face us as we enter with our Lord into the last week of His earthly life. The first event in that sequence is the one we study in our lesson for today, namely, the coming of the King to Jerusalem. Jesus on this occasion did a very dramatic and unusual thing, a fact which indicated that here is an incident of extraordinary import to which we do well to give careful study.

I. Preparation and Presentation (vv. 1-7).

The King comes, but even in His hour of royal triumph He gives to His followers the unexplainable but inestimable joy of meeting His need.

1. "The Lord Hath Need" (vv. 1-6). He had need of disciples who would do His bidding without question or hesitation—and the disciples went, and did even as Jesus had appointed them" (v. 6). How precious is such obedience! Let us also go and do what He commands.

He needed the colt and the ass. How simple and lowly was this need, and yet how glorious that a man was ready to meet it! God's plans are worked out in the little things as well as the great. Prophecy was being fulfilled here (see v. 5) by a little thing. Is God waiting for you to put some great purpose through some little thing which you are withholding from Him? Why hinder Him any longer?

2. "Behold Thy King Cometh" (vv. 5-7). Though He did not come with the pomp and trappings of an earthly potentate, the King of Glory came to His people to offer them for the last time the opportunity to receive Him. He asks you to yield your life to His kingship. What will your answer be?

II. Acceptance and Rejection (vv. 8-11, 15, 16).

1. "The Multitude . . . Cried . . . Hosanna" (vv. 8-11). The fact that before the week was over many of the same voices cried, "Crucify Him!" should not obscure the fact that there were childlike believers (v. 16) who really had faith in Christ. There is something inspiring about that picture of enthusiasm and devotion. Real faith in Christ ought to result in a fervor of spirit which will stir our hearts and our cities. Are we not altogether too dead and formal in much of our worship today? Do we not need more holy enthusiasm for Christ and for His Church?

2. "The Chief Priests and Scribes . . . Were Sore Displeased" (vv. 15, 16). Small wonder, for not only had the children put them to open shame by recognizing the Christ whom they had ignored, but He had in turn ruined their polite religious racket which produced for them such a lovely profit. Mark this—when anyone is displeased with Jesus or with His true children or with His work on earth, you can be sure that there is a reason, and not a holy, upright or good reason either!

III. Judgment and Compassion (vv. 12-14).

What a remarkable picture! In the midst of flaming judgment and destruction we find loving compassion upon the blind and the lame. Folk who think that Christ has no message but love need to look on Him as He cleanses the temple. On the other hand, those who think that He has no word but judgment need to behold Him as He stands in the midst of the overturned tables and debris and heals the needy. Inconsistent? Not at all. God is love, but He is also absolute holiness.

1. "Jesus Cast Out . . . and Overthrew" (vv. 12, 13). He knew where to begin to cleanse the city. He started in the temple. Absolutely right is the man who suggested that the place to start to clean up a city is not in the slums but in the churches. You will be ready to clean out the tavern or that other low place where the gang hangs out in your town after you have cleaned out the church. The same is true of the individual. A regenerated heart will bring a reformed life, not vice versa.

2. "He Healed Them" (v. 14). The very hands which had just overthrown the tables and cast out the money-changers now gently touched the lame and the blind with healing. The eyes which had blazed with holy indignation now shone with love and compassion. The scene of judgment and chaos became the house of prayer and of answered prayer. On the very spot where one man had received condemnation, another received healing. Each one received that which he sought by his action. How will you, my dear reader, meet Jesus—as your Judge or as your Saviour? You must make the choice.

Evergreen News Events Reported

Evergreen, Jan 23.- "As the days lengthen, the cold strengthens," seems an accurate statement during the present winter season. Truly, the weather seems to grow colder each week. While the temperature is higher this morning than for several days past, at 10 A.M. the weather is cloudy and it looks like another snow is coming. (Editor's note: brother you're telling it mildly!)

Ice on the lake near here is 7 or 8 inches deep, notwithstanding the fact there is no protection from the full warmth of the monday sun. On last Saturday morning, the temperature was lower at Evergreen than for many year's past.

At the post office, the temperature was 3 above, while at a nearby residence it was 2 above. There are nearly hundreds of tons of perfectly good ice that no one seems to need except for the young people to skate on, and palimony to get many a hard fall.

On a recent cold morning, a farmer who lives on an adjoining farm heard a commotion among his sheep. On investigation, he found a fox, evidently on the look-out for a young lamb. Now, this farmer has two very large wolf-hounds, and took them only a few minutes to capture Mr. Fox, and thereby save some valuable lambs.

Since I have been writing, the snow has begun to fall rapidly, and within a few minutes ground has become covered with snow. Does any one know how many days the snow has fallen since the 22nd day of December?

On a recent stroll, when the snow was deep on the ground, the writer observed an enterprising young farmer busily engaged in hauling barnyard manure, not with a manure spreader, but with a pair of high-stepping mules hitched to an improvised sled. As he did not have a guide pole to his sled, naturally the mules had to step lively on a downgrade, which they seemed to be doing.

Many of the pupils of the local school are being kept out because of the prevalence of chicken pox in the community. Among those absent the past few days are: Frankie Glover, Temple Paschetto, Jeanne Jennings, Lewis Harvey, C.K. Kirks, Jr., William Albert Harvey, Franklin, and Henry Simmons, Buddie Jennings, the latter in bed with flu.

Mr. and Mrs. Geoffrey Austin are spending a few days with relatives in Eagle Rock.

The W.M.C. and Ladies Aid of the Evergreen Baptist church will meet with Mrs. Sam Jennings Wednesday, January 31.

Aylby Paulett was taken to the Virginia Baptist hospital for a tendays treatment.

Mrs. J.A. Evans and family are recovering from the flu.

Jimmie Evans continues sick. Miss Nannie May Evans, of Appomattox spent the week-end in the home of Mrs. T.T. Evans.

Mrs. Louise Pope and Mrs. T.T. Evans are sick with flu.

Mrs. E. L. Harvey continues to suffer with an infected hand.

Dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Farrar Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Austin, Miss Dorothy Austin, and Roy Austin.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Conner in Lynchburg Sunday included: Mr. and Mrs. J.R. Conner and John Farrar, of Evergreen, Miss Madlan Lee.

Mrs. H.C. Cralle visited Mrs. W.F. Warthier Monday.

Monday was the writer's birthday. Though not recalling the fact at the time, the writer was calling in the home of a very dear friend, and was prevailed upon to partake of a very, very good lunch, though neither of us realized it at the time that it was my birthday.

Now that I have passed the fifteenth milestone on my journey, I shall soon have to take a back seat to make room for others more fit.

Mrs. Sam Jennings, Mrs. J.R. Hamilton, Mrs. Sam Staples and Mrs. Z.V. Harvey were recent guests of Mrs. Coulter Ferrell.

A most frequent topic of conversation wherever men and women so-called Rural Route people are wont to linger is that to Gideon and his 300 Midcenites. I recall a sermon to the effect that the churches of this country, together at their several places of worship on the first Sunday in January, with a dollar in each man of each church or Sunday School, as a special offering to help the Prohibition gallant struggle.

Last Week's Activity In The Legislature

Richmond, Va., Jan. 20.- Featured by Governor Price's budget message recommending certain tax increases to finance old-age assistance and relief programs and provide a salary raise for school teachers, General Assembly sessions this week produced many controversial issues.

Delegate Leon M. Bazile's bill, abolishing the right of departments to make rules and regulations having the effect of law, encountered delay in the House Courts of Justice committee, a legislators desired time to study this sweeping proposal that would "restrict law-making to the law-making body."

Likewise Senator Hunsdon Cary's bill, denying labor the right to strike during a "cooling off" period of compulsory negotiation, faced a stormy path. Organized labor represented by the Railroad Brotherhoods, American Federation of Labor and the C.I.O. united in opposing the measure as drawn.

A bill designed to put more "teeth" into the laws regulating outdoor advertising, sponsored by Senators Tuck, Daniel and Battle, Delegate Blackburn Moore and fifteen additional House members, was also emphasized by U.S. Commissioner of Education J.W. Studebaker in address, reprinted in leaflet form, made before the Congress on Education for Democracy, in New York.

"Education for democracy is basically concerned with the social and economic issues which have long put up to us by the machine empire," said Dr. Studebaker. He added, however, that "The reluctance of some educators to promote the vital study of complex modern problems seems to be based in part upon the fear of criticism and attack from certain elements in the community opposed to free discussion. School administrators," said Dr. Studebaker, "are conscious of the forces in their communities which will oppose any consideration of controversial subjects unless the teacher, professor, or discussion leader will indoctrinate a point of view satisfactory to these forces."

DELEGATE MOORE OTHER INTERESTS LARGELY AFFECTED

Delegate George Ikeway, Buchanan independent Democrat, of Clintwood, offered a bill to abolish the absent voters law. In his opening message to the legislature Governor Price said the "so-called absent voter's law is being openly violated both in spirit and in the letter of the law," adding that the law should be amended to preclude "its pernicious abuses or else entirely repealed."

Senator Parker, of Wise, introduced a bill to establish a Department of Mines and Minerals separate from the Department of Labor which now administers the mine laws.

The appropriation bill, covering all expenses of the State government for the two years beginning July 1, 1940, was introduced by Delegate Frank Moore, of Lexington, appropriations committee chairman. Meanwhile Dr. Rowland Egger, director of the budget, conferred with members of the Senate finance committee preliminary to public hearings.

EDUCATION MOVES DEMOCRACY FORWARD

Charlottesville, Jan. 24.- That the progress of Democracy is being retarded by attempts of some individuals and minority or even some majority groups to high-pressure the teaching profession into silence on the subject of controversial issues and to intimidate the teaching profession into silence on the subject of controversial issues and to intimidate with the threat of budget cuts was emphasized by U.S. Commissioner of Education J.W. Studebaker in address, reprinted in leaflet form, made before the Congress on Education for Democracy, in New York.

"Education for democracy is basically concerned with the social and economic issues which have long put up to us by the machine empire," said Dr. Studebaker. He added, however, that "The reluctance of some educators to promote the vital study of complex modern problems seems to be based in part upon the fear of criticism and attack from certain elements in the community opposed to free discussion. School administrators," said Dr. Studebaker, "are conscious of the forces in their communities which will oppose any consideration of controversial subjects unless the teacher, professor, or discussion leader will indoctrinate a point of view satisfactory to these forces."
